Old and New Business 11-10-26

- Winter preparations – Since the completion of land application of biosolids, the operational activities have revolved around getting the plant ready for the cold weather season. We do everything we can to avoid having to take down a process or tankage in the dead of winter.

  The gravity thickener was drained, cleaned and inspected with no major issues found. Accumulated FOG and solids were dislodged from under the weir troughs, scum trough, and tank sidewalls. With no major issues it was placed right back into service.

  As mentioned in the operations update – ATAD and SNDR#1 were also drained, cleaned and inspected.

  Disinfection pumps and piping were inspected and flushed out to be put to sleep for winter.

- Headworks Site Visits – we have hosted a considerable amount of site visits for contractors and subs that are interested in the Headworks project. The firms run the gamut from roofing to mechanical contractors. There seems to be no shortage of interest with this project but it remains to be seen how many bids will be submitted.
